

Report of My Stay @ UK

Environmental Science & Technology
 Nishikizawa Lab.
 M1 Kentaro YAMAMOTO(13M29354)

Liverpool

The World Heritage (Cultural Heritage Site)

It has remained old historical docs from 19th, but because of the development, it has registered as "World Heritage in Danger" from 2012.

The Beetles

Many people still love them. The orphanage was closed in 2005, but this famous red gate were removed and replaced with replicas in May 2011.

2/24/2014

The University of Liverpool

I had belonged to the Department of Civic Design. This department is one of the oldest department related with urban environmental issues in UK. I attended some lectures and seminars per week. There is a beautiful garden, Abercromby Square. When it was fine, I often went there and took some rest.

2/24/2014

The concept for parks

In the UK, parks have been improved as private backyards for residents around them. So, many old parks are surrounded by houses. There are two large parks in Liverpool Toxteth. Princes Park and Sefton Park, and other smaller gardens are more. Green area and city infrastructures were good placed or green area are thought more important for residents.

2/24/2014

Church, Cathedral (1)

There are many churches in the city. Churches are kinds of symbol for communities. This photo is St. James church. It doesn't have roofs because it was bombed at WW2. So, people call it with reflection of the war, "Bombed Church." I thought it would be similar to Urakami Cathedral and Hiroshima Peace Memorial.

2/24/2014

Church, Cathedral (2)

Liverpool is unique because it has two cathedrals, the Catholic and the Protestant. This different religious sects caused a kind of opposition, but people could overcome it. Now, the road between this two cathedrals is called "Hope Street."

2/24/2014